We all know there are two faces to every boss!
You deserve better than that.

A WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING

Why are you seeing such a change in the attitude of your management lately? Just the thought of you forming a union and finally having a “real” voice in the workplace has already put them on the defensive.

The only way to gain dignity and respect on the job and security for you and your family is to have a legal and binding union contract.

The company has been asking many of you for another chance. First of all, they shouldn't have to ask for another chance because they should have been treating you at least as good as their employees at the other facilities, but to quote one member of top management, “...since this facility is not union, we can do whatever we want here.” Not only is that disgraceful but it should have angered all of you.

What you are not being told is that if you do not vote in favor of forming a union, once the election is over, by law you will have to wait one full year before you can vote again. There is no doubt the company will shed the sheep's clothing during this time and only they know what you will lose then. Get rid of the Wolf forever!
